

Human Society > Influences on Social Change

Research on Student Learning

Some research has investigated student notions of laws. Findings indicate that elementary-school students mix legal and moral norms. <sup>[1]</sup> In addition, students at that age often have an authoritarian view of laws. They believe that laws are automatically right and "are handed down from on high". <sup>[2]</sup>

References

[1] Berti, A.E. (1988). The development of political understanding in children between 6-15 years old. Human Relations, 41, 437-446.

[2] Moore, S.W., Lare, J., Wagner, K. (1985). The child's political world: A longitudinal perspective. The child's political world: A longitudinal perspective..